Schlumberger Transfers Part of Personnel from Harrisburg Office

Decline in Oil Drilling Activity Given As Reason

Because of the decline in oil drilling activity, the Schlumberger Well Surveying Co. is discontinuing the use of one of its two combination logging and perforating trucks out of the Harrisburg headquarters.

As a result several transfers from Harrisburg to other points are being announced.

Bill Beazley, manager of the Harrisburg office, is now on vacation and will be transferred to Schlumberger's Evansville division office after he returns here Jan. 8.

Engineer Tom Lovan will go to Mt. Vernon, Ill., Jan. 1. Engineer Trainee Dick Pettyjohn will transfer to the Evansville division of Dec. 30 and Engineer Joe McGuire will transfer to the Fairmont, W. Va., office around Feb. 1.

Leaving today for other points were Ed Fearheiley, transferred to Mt. Pleasant, Mich., and Ray Dasher, transferred to Pampa, Texas, both operators on the logging and perforating unit being discontinued here.

Remaining at the Harrisburg headquarters, located at 702 West Locust street, are Engineer Charles R. Pepe; Jimmy McDowell, D. H. Harlow and Bill Temple.

Burglars Enter Two Schools, Humane Shelter

County and city officers today were working on Christmas-time burglaries that occurred in Harrisburg.

Latest was last night at the Harrisburg Humane society where the custodian's home was entered and loot taken.

Missing was a 12 gauge Browning automatic shotgun, a .22 calibre Remington rifle and a .32 Colt that belonged to the custodian, Martin Mallady, and $20.25 that belonged to the society.

Monday night both Logan school and Junior high school were burglarized with $60 that had been hidden at Logan found and stolen. Junior high school was entered and ransacked in an apparent unsuccessful attempt by thieves to take money.

At the Humane society, Mr. and Mrs. Mallady and their two-week-old baby were gone Christmas evening from about 4:30 to 8:45 p. m. An investigation showed that a screen had been cut to get onto the back porch and that the glass was broken in the back door to get into the house.

A lock was broken off a metal box where the society's money kept and all but a quarter, which dropped, was stolen.

Two Injured in Highway Crash

Two persons received minor injuries in a motor vehicle crash on Route 34 south of Pankeyville about 4:45 p. m. Christmas Day.

State Troopers Richard Percy and George Adams, who investigated, said those injured were Mrs. Mamie Rutherford and 15-year-old Russell Wise.

They said that a car driven by Mrs. Betty W. Riggs of Eldorado and a pickup truck driven by Eugene Wise of Robbs figured in the collision as both vehicles were travelling north. Mrs. Rutherford is the mother of Mrs. Riggs, young Russell the son of Mr. Wise.

Education Aid Greatest Need in U.S.: Sen. Morse

TOKYO (UP) — Sen. Wayne Morse said today "the greatest foreign policy need of the United States during the next 50 years is federal aid to education."

The Democratic member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said the United States cannot stay ahead of Russia in manpower, and that its only hope to remain ahead of Russia "is in brainpower."

Morse, chief American delegate to the recent commonwealth parliamentary conference in India, warned that Russian education on the high school and college level may well be of higher caliber than it is in the U. S.

"I would hate to see an across-the-board test on all education between high school students in Russia and the United States," he said.

Morse, a teacher himself for 21 years, said it is alarming to realize that "23 per cent of the high schools in the U. S. do not offer a course in chemistry or physics."

He said Russia's educational process of finding bright students and providing them with a college education was superior to the U. S. emphasis on mass education.

Morse said Russia's launching of the first satellite was a challenge to change our educational policy.

He predicted that during the next session of Congress, aid money would be voted for science programs in high schools and colleges, more money would be voted for school construction and more scholarships would be provided for worthy students.

Storm, Rain Pushes East From Midwest

By United Press

A Christmas storm that carried considerable rain but little snow into the Midwest pushed eastward today, and weathermen warned of possible hazardous driving conditions in the higher elevations of New York and Pennsylvania.

Strong northwesterly winds up to 45 m.p.h. whipped the upper Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes Wednesday night and today in the wake of the storm system.

Precipitation, mostly rain but with some snow in northern Minnesota and the upper Great Lakes, continued during the night from the Gulf Coast north to Hudson Bay.

Weathermen said a mixture of rain and freezing rain in the mountain regions of New York and Pennsylvania were expected to glaze highways overnight, making driving dangerous. Fog combined with light rain over the southern Appalachians.

The storm dumped up to one-half inch of rain during the night at numerous points in the upper Ohio River Valley, while Charleston and Anderson, S. C., both reported about three-fourths inch.

In the Pacific Northwest, another storm off the British Columbia coast brought high winds averaging 40 to 50 miles an hour from the Washington-Oregon coast to the northern Rockies.

Rainfall ranging from one-half to one inch doused the coastal region, and about five more inches of snow were added to the higher mountain passes, boosting the accumulations to five to seven feet.

'Lot of Gobbledygook,' Truman's Comment on Ike, Dulles Report

Makes Statement While On Christmas Visit to Grandson

NEW YORK (UP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said today that President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' telecast to the nation Monday night was "a lot of gobbledygook."

"The show was fixed up by BPD&O," Truman said, referring to a New York advertising company which has been employed by the Republican Party, "and they didn't do a very good job."

"BPD&O — that's Bunko, bull, deceit and obfuscation," Truman said.

The firm's proper formal name is Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn Inc.

Bored With Dulles

The former President, who had refused until today to comment on the President's report to the nation, made his statements during a 15-minute morning walk in the rain from the Hotel Carlyle where he and Mrs. Truman are staying during a Christmas visit with their daughter and grandson.

"I think I was just about as thoroughly bored with Mr. Dulles as the President appeared to be," Truman said. "It was nothing new at all. There was no statement of policy to be pursued to meet the situation, and it sounded a damn sight worse when he said it than if you read it."

When he was asked later if there were any Christmas presents he might wish to give to persons in government today, he said: "I would like to get Mr. Dulles a good college dictionary so he can use the English language so that we can all understand him."

There was one point in which the former President appeared in full agreement with Eisenhower and Dulles.

"I have no faith in any Russian peace offers," he said.

But he indicated he was disappointed in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting on which the President reported. He said he understood it had been planned to "reestablish agreements between the NATO powers, and I didn't see anything on that. I hoped there would be a policy statement—this is the way we are going to do it, and do it—but there was no such statement made."

Describes Grandson's Gifts

Truman volunteered a high opinion of Britain's Queen Elizabeth's Christmas message to the Commonwealth, in which she said the world's ills were being caused "by unthinking people who carelessly throw away ageless ideals as if they were old and outworn machinery."

It was a "lovely statement," Truman said. "We haven't lost them, but we've been neglecting them," he said of the ideals to which she referred.

Truman said his 6-month-old grandson, Clifton Truman Daniel, had received "so many toys it will be some years before he can use them all. You name something he didn't get."

He said he had given the baby a swing "that he can bounce up and down on."

The child's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Clifton Daniel Sr., who also came here from North Carolina for their grandson's first Christmas, gave him a "nice as could be high chair and table combination," Truman said.

Well Below Estimates

Nine Killed In Illinois Holiday Traffic

By United Press

Illinois motorists posted a relatively safe Christmas celebration, holding the holiday traffic death toll well below estimates.

At least 9 persons were killed on state highways during the holiday period from 6 p. m. Tuesday until midnight Wednesday night.

However, the Chicago Motor Club had estimated a toll of 21 dead in Illinois traffic during the 30-hour period.

Among the victims were an Ohio father and son who were injured fatally in a two-car collision when, according to police, the father failed to stop at an intersection near Minonk.

The victims were Thomas Matheny, 29, Fairview Park, Ohio, and his son, Thomas, 9. Thomas died a few hours after the crash at a Pontiac hospital.

Three of the fatalities occurred Christmas Eve.

Phillip Reynolds, 26, Jacksonville, was killed in a two-car collision near New Berlin.

Leighton Tomlinson, 27, Milledgeville, was killed in a head-on collision near Sterling.

Kenneth Lovell Jr., 32, Libertyville, was killed when his car struck a tree on Skokie Highway near Lake Forest.

Among those killed in Christmas Day crashes was Quentin Denney, 62, Orangeville, who died as a result of a two-car collision near Ma-

Rescue One of Three Illinois Men Down in Pacific

HONOLULU (UP) — Search parties rescued one of three Illinois servicemen aboard a Navy Super Constellation which crashed Dec. 23 in the Pacific Ocean off the island of Oahu, Hawaii.

The Navy announced that Aviation Tech. 3-C Franklin A. Henry, 22, Kankakee, Ill., was one of four crash survivors pulled from the ocean.

Bodies of two of the 19 other crewmen were recovered. One of the bodies was identified as that of Electronic Tech. 3C James C. Rush, Robinson, Ill.

Among the missing and presumed dead was Comdr. Frederick E. Woodward of Honolulu, whose father, Fred, lives in Moline, Ill.

Lone Destroyer Still in Search

HONOLULU (UP) — A lone Navy destroyer patrolled the Pacific today on the million to one chance of finding another survivor from a Navy radar plane that crashed off northern Oahu Island.

A rescue boat earlier found four survivors of the 23 men aboard the plane, which crashed Monday. The boat also recovered two bodies. That left 17 men presumed killed.

Rear Adm. Neil K. Dietrich, commander of the Honolulu sea frontier, ordered the search discontinued at sundown Wednesday. "A considerable amount of small wreckage was recovered, but there has been no sign of additional survivors," Dietrich said.

"We are of the opinion that all possibility of the existence of additional survivors has been exhausted and nothing can be gained by a further large scale search."

Nevertheless, he ordered the destroyer to stay in the area just in case another survivor or two might be still struggling to stay afloat or other bodies could be recovered.

The seven million dollar radar plane was on a routine training flight when it suddenly lost altitude and crashed into the sea.

The four survivors were Cmdr. Guy Howard, 41, Oakland, Calif.; Lt. (jg) Thomas Kline, 25, East Williston, N. D.; Lt. (jg) Richard Rentschler, 22, Lincoln, Neb.; and Aviation Technician 3-C Franklin A. Henry, 22, Kankakee, Ill.

Eisenhower Works on Missile-Geared Legislative Program

Message Jan. 9 Expected to Call For Record Budget

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower pushed aside the joys of Christmas today to work on the missile-geared legislative program he will hand Congress in two weeks.

The Chief Executive's State of the Union message Jan. 9 is expected to call for the largest military budget in the nation's peacetime history to meet the Soviet space-age threat.

Rising Wabash Rivers Hit Mt. Carmel, Carmi

Big Muddy Pours Over Tornado Stricken Areas

By United Press

A wet Christmas in southern Illinois forced some families to leave home, and others are preparing to evacuate in the face of fast-rising rivers.

At Mount Carmel, two families inside the city limits and one outside have been forced from their homes by the Wabash River. It reached 23.86 feet today, almost seven feet above the 17-foot flood stage.

The 24.5 foot flood crest for Friday has not been revised. If the predicted crest is reached, some 35 families will probably have to be evacuated.

An inch of rain fell in Mount Carmel on Christmas Day, sending the Wabash River pouring over the high school football field. The high school is on a 70-foot bluff across the street and is not affected.

The Big Muddy River at Murphysboro has jumped its banks and poured into the area which was devastated by tornadoes last week. The sheriff's office says the homes would have been evacuated if any had been left there. No evacuations have been reported.

A cleanup of the devastated area has been delayed by the flood.

At Carmi, some 28 families in the east part of the city have left their homes and a dozen more are keeping a watchful eye on the fast-rising little Wabash River. Two businesses—a glass shop and a garage—also have moved out their merchandise or placed it on counters and shelves.

The river was at 33.70 feet today the highest level in more than six years. It was still rising almost an inch an hour. Some observers believe the river will rise another 3 1/2 inches before cresting.

Seven of the eight streets in East Carmi were flooded, and the water was more than a foot deep in some homes.

Weekend in Gettysburg

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower were expected to motor tomorrow or the next day to their farm at Gettysburg for the weekend.

Defense Department officials and the President have indicated the stepped-up missile effort will mean an unprecedented peace-time military budget of about 40 billion dollars. This compares with $84,500,000,000 budgeted in 1945 — the largest amount for a wartime military spending.

Pentagon sources said the bulk of the next defense budget already was at the printers. But they said this did not mean changes couldn't still be made.

The present defense effort is expected to cost 39 billion dollars for the fiscal year ending June 30—one billion dollars more than was budgeted by the last congress.

Plans 2 Billion Boost

The President told congressional leaders at a White House conference earlier this month he intended to boost military spending by about two billion dollars—all but killing any hopes for a tax cut and meaning possibly a red ink budget.

The weighty problems of reshaping the nation's defense didn't keep the President from enjoying a quiet but merry Christmas with his family Wednesday at the House.

He and Mrs. Eisenhower, who wore a red dress for the occasion, shared a 40-pound turkey with their son's family and their four children.

It Happened in Southern Illinois

William Barclay 'Bat' Masterson

John W. Allen
Southern Illinois University

A roster of noted gunmen and peace officers of the old West would be incomplete without the name of William Barclay "Bat" Masterson, an Illinois boy who emigrated with his family to the vicinity of Wichita, Kansas, in 1871. Although volumes have been written about Masterson's exploits after his arrival in Kansas, little is told of his Illinois boyhood.

"Bat" was born in Illinois on November 23, 1851. One biographer says this occurred in Iroquois County. Local legend and tradition among surviving kinsmen would have him born south of Ellettsburg, Iowa, where a number of descendants from an early Masterson family yet reside.

In the fall of their first year in Kansas, "Bat" and a brother joined a party going to Fort Dodge to hunt buffalo. Thus began the long and checkered career of one of the West's most colorful characters. For the next thirty-one years he was a prominent figure in the roaring West.

Remaining Years in East

Masterson was by turn, buffalo hunter, railroad contractor, Indian fighter, scout and messenger for General Miles, teamster and bull whacker, town marshal, sheriff of Ford County, professional gambler, prankster, faro dealer, and, along with Wyatt Earp, a deacon in the Rev. Wright's Union Church. This was before 1902, when "Bat" left a somewhat subdued West and went to New York City to spend his remaining nineteen years as a writer and sports editor with the Morning Telegraph.

After his first venture as a buffalo hunter, Masterson returned to Dodge City, where he and a partner took a sub-contract to grade a mile of roadway for the Atchison-Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad. The mile that they graded was the first one extending west from the military reservation. It was along this mile that Front Street, for many years one of the most noted in America, grew up. The general contractor from whom "Bat" and his partner had taken the sub-contract neglected to pay them. Later, "Bat" unceremoniously hauled him off a passing train and collected in full at the point of a revolver.

In 1874 Masterson was at Adobe Walls, a trading post in the northern end of the Texas panhandle, when several hundred Indians made an unsuccessful attack upon 26 traders and hunters gathered there. As one of its spirited defenders, "Bat" was commended for his coolness and bravery. He next became a scout and messenger for General Miles. Finishing this, he returned to Dodge City and became deputy town marshal.

Immediately Successful
In 1876 he resigned and joined gold rush to Deadwood. After a few months "Bat" returned to Dodge City with an established reputation as a skilled and daring gunman. Since it was then a custom to select a gunman to deal with gunmen, he was elected sheriff of Ford County in November, 1877, at the age of 24.

He was immediately successful. Early in 1878, a few weeks after taking office, "Bat" learned that Dave Rudabaugh, a noted operator, had committed a robbery in another western Kansas County and was in flight toward Texas. Despite the fact that the crime had been committed outside his jurisdiction, Masterson took a small posse and went to a cattle camp on the trail along which he thought Rudabaugh would flee. When Rudabaugh and his half frozen men appeared during a raging blizzard, Bat captured them without firing a shot. Numerous other captures of noted gunmen followed. "Bat's" star continued to rise.

Shortly afterwards, "Bat's" brother, Edward, marshal of Dodge City, was killed while trying to subdue two drunken cowboys. "Bat" arrived at almost the same instant and shot his brother's killers. The whole episode was over

JACK ANDERSON Says:
Air Force Trains First Outer-Space Pilot; Manned Satellite Debut Probably Scheduled For Late 1958; CIA Expert Warns Russians Excel In More Than Missile Field.

WASHINGTON. — The Air Force has already picked the space pilot who will make the first daring flight into outer space, an American Columbus whose first name ironically is Ivan. He is Capt. Ivan Kincheloe, now training at Edwards Air Base, Calif., for his great adventure as America's first space explorer.

He will soar into space in stages—first 100 miles, then 400 miles. Finally he will swing his X-15 rocket plane into an orbit around the earth, making it the first manned satellite. The Air Force timetable calls for this feat in the breathtaking short space of three years, provided Congress will foot the modest bill (estimated at less than $500,000).

Kincheloe's glory will be shared with a civilian test pilot, Scott Crossfield, who will put the X-15 through its paces for North American Aviation before it is delivered to the Air Force. Crossfield's flight tests should be more limited, however, than those the Air Force is planning for Captain Kincheloe.

The amazing X-15 should be ready for its first limited flight test by the end of 1958. Kincheloe's first goal will be to take it out of the earth's atmosphere to an anticipated altitude of more than 100 miles.

In the next test series, he will use the boosters from the abandoned Navajo missile to shoot another 300 miles into space.

From these staggering heights, he will practice re-entering the earth's atmosphere.

Sometime in 1961, North American wants to add a third booster to the X-15 which will make it, in effect, a manned three-stage rocket. Using the third booster, Kincheloe hopes to throw the rocket plane into an orbit and start chasing Sputniks around the earth at a speed over 12,000 miles per hour.

To slow down, he will bounce into a roller-coaster, elliptical course as he revolves around the globe. He will dip a little lower each time until he gradually enters the atmosphere, slowing down as he encounters heavier air.

The intrepid Air Force officer has already been fitted for a space suit. He will ride in a tiny pressurized cabin, an atmospheric bubble, which is scientifically sound for a trip to the moon. In fact, this may be Captain Kincheloe's next stop.

SOVIET PROGRESS

In a startling report to President Eisenhower's committee on scientists and engineers, Dr. Herbert Scoville, assistant director of the hush-hush Central Intelligence Agency, has dispelled the myth that Russia has concentrated on missiles and neglected the other sciences.

"The Russians are ahead in terms of total scientific and technical professional manpower," he warned bluntly. "If these trends continue, the situation will get worse before it gets better."

The assistant CIA chief cited television as a field in which Americans consider themselves superior. Yet in Moscow alone there are 2,000,000 sets, which, he said, "compares favorably with the situation in this country."

"The Russian sets are of high quality; their components are superior to those of our sets," he declared. "Actual picture performance is better in Russian sets. However, the cost is considerably higher in Russia."

He also praised the "quality of their work in color TV."

Atomic energy is another field in which Americans believe they excel. Yet Dr. Scoville reported the Russians not only have conducted nuclear tests on a large scale but "have been conducting two atomic test series simultaneously at great distances apart, which means they have enough people and equipment to handle two tests at once."

We have never run simultaneous nuclear tests, though we have atomic testing grounds as far apart as the Nevada desert and Fritwetok Island far out in the Pacific.

"The Russians," Dr. Scoville also reported, "have set up a joint nuclear research institute at Dubna near Moscow making the research and training facilities available to scientists from the satellite countries. The satellite countries represented at the institute must contribute financially to its support, and their scientists are not too pleased with this since they feel that it makes them dependent on the Russian system and less able to do their own research."

At least America is ahead in agriculture. Said Dr. Scoville: "In agriculture, Russia is about 20 years behind the U. S. People, however, are again being trained in the sound fundamentals and are now working along proper lines."

But the total picture is no cause for complacency.

"To summarize," the intelligence expert concluded, "the Russians have a very large number of scientific and engineering people and their educational system is good. However, particularly at the lower levels, they may suppress initiative. This is a quality we would do well to stress in our system as it may offset some of the other Soviet advantages. There is no question but that the Soviets are capable of great accomplishments both in peacetime and wartime. In view of the dynamic drive of their entire scientific program, we must expect further revolutionary developments."

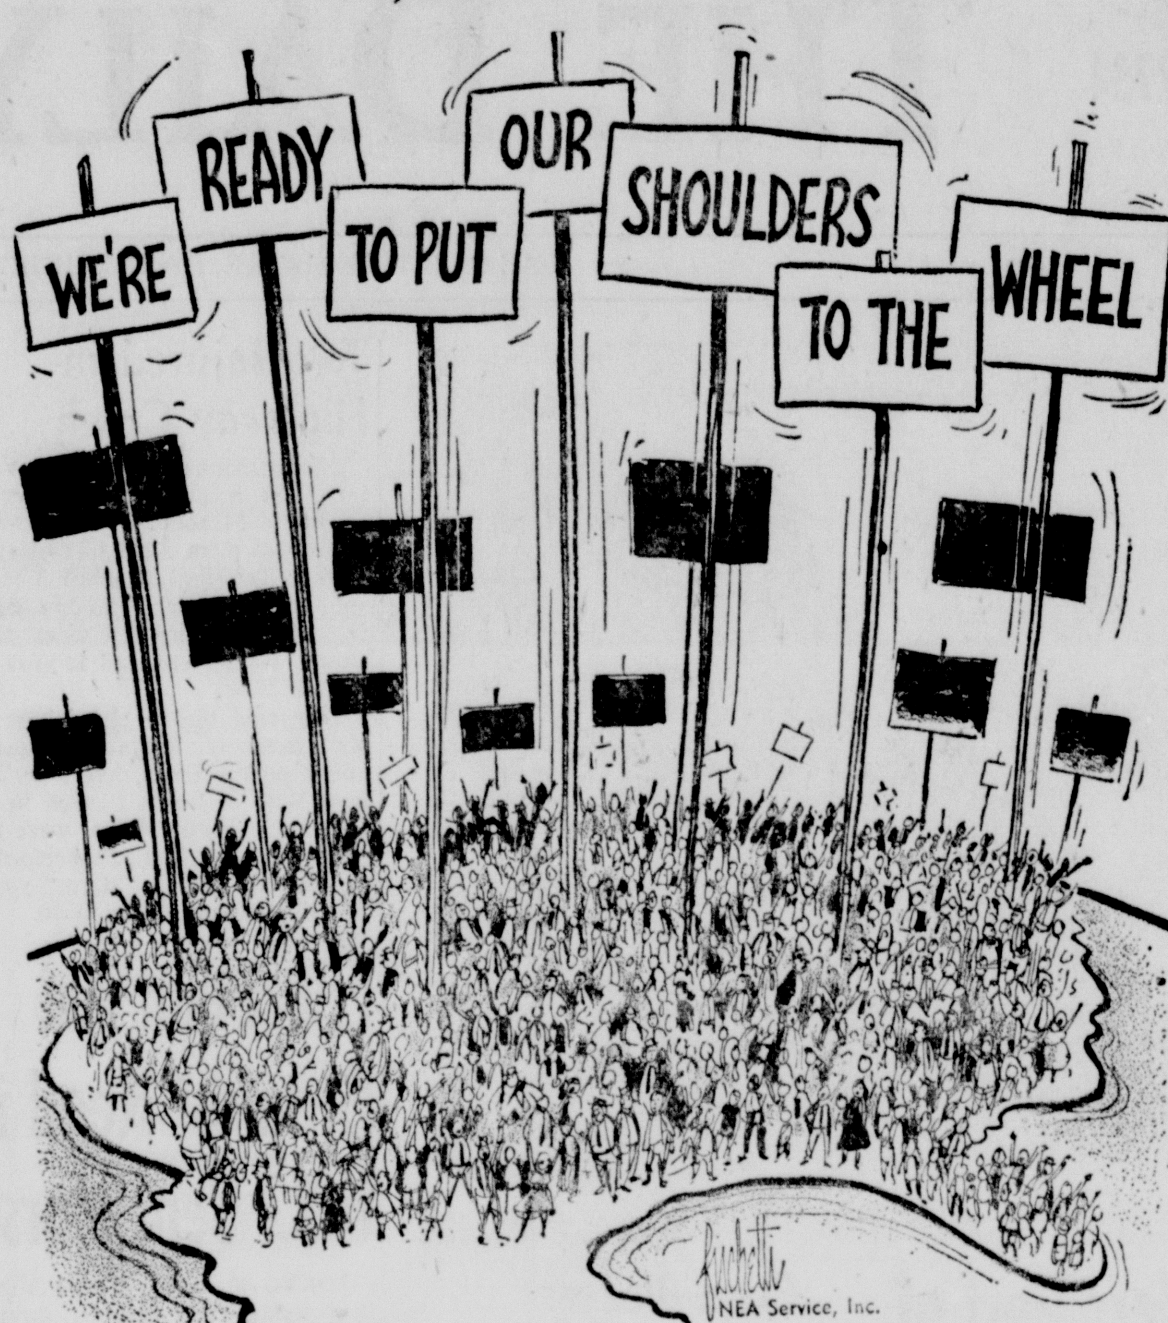

MISSILE-GO-ROUND

Watch for a series of startling rocket tests in the Arctic Circle about the end of January. The tests will be conducted in the name of "scientific research," but are really intended as dramatic evidence that Russia could bombard our NATO allies with missiles. . . . the last Thor firing was a spectacular success. The Air Force missile soared 1,200 miles over the South Atlantic, impacting less than three miles short and a little over one mile wide of its target.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Yesterday was a happy day in thousands of Christian homes. Multitudes shared from their plenty with their loved ones and their friends. After the wrappings and ribbons had been removed from the packages there were many tears of happiness and appreciation. Yet there were notes of sadness in many quarters.

Christmas did not last long enough. When the day was past there were still unfulfilled desires for love. Christ had been overlooked by many. Some had failed to respond to the message of the Prince of Peace.

It still remains for everyone to continue to proclaim the glad tidings. We must live so that man kind will discover the reality of God's Son. The celebration of a holiday to honor Christ's birth is not enough. The other Wise Men kept searching and ministering through the years which followed the first Christmas.

MARION, Ill. (AP)—A new strip mine which will employ some 20 men is scheduled to begin operations north of Marion about Feb. 15.

The mine is being opened by the Utilities Coal Co., a subsidiary of Morgan Mines. It has purchased an estimated two million tons of coal deposits formerly owned by the Wallace Coal Co., McLaren Coal Co. and the Phil Heyde estate.

The mine will produce an estimated 2,000 tons of coal a day. Its estimated life is 10 years.

Sputniks Top Best Stories

NEW YORK (AP)—The launching of the Russian Sputniks, marking the opening of the Space Age, was voted the biggest news story of 1957 by United Press editors.

They took into account that the impact of the Sputniks on newspaper readers and TV-radio listeners extended far beyond the field of science. The current re-appraisal of the United States' defense policy, for instance, can be traced largely to the Soviet triumph in putting artificial moons into space. The ten biggest:

1. Sputniks.
 2. The integration of Little Rock Central High School with special emphasis on the fact that federal troops were sent in to bring it about.
 3. President Eisenhower's stroke and the resulting controversy about what should be done in event of presidential disability.
 4. The Senate rackets investigation and the subsequent controversy inside the ranks of organized labor.
 5. The rise of Khrushchev to the pinnacle of Soviet power and the downgrading of Russia's greatest military hero, Marshal Zhukov.
 6. The continuing turmoil in the Mideast with the constant threat that it will produce a major war.
 7. The rescue of Benny Hooper from a Long Island well. The editors noted that this was one of the outstanding human interest stories of recent years.
 8. The triumph of the Milwaukee Braves in the World Series and the realignment of the National League to include Los Angeles and San Francisco.
 9. Hurricane Audrey.
 10. The international controversy over the Girard trial in Japan.
- Other stories that received strong support were: The Paris NATO meeting; the stock market's fluctuations; the end of the southwestern drought; Queen Elizabeth's American visit; the Asian flu epidemic; and earthquakes in Mexico and San Francisco.

Star of Equality Chapter O.E.S. Has Installation

The Masonic Hall in Equality was the scene of the annual installation of officers of the Star of Equality Chapter, No. 842, Order of the Eastern Star, Monday evening, Dec. 9, at eight o'clock, during which Mrs. Lola Bentley and Leslie Leonberger became Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron for the ensuing year.

The formal ceremony began with the candlelighters, Miss Brenda Colbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Colbert, and Charles Aydelott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Aydelott, lighting the candles at various points about the room.

The retiring Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron, Mrs. Pearl Sisk and Geo. Aydelott, entered the chapter room followed by the Associate Conductress, Mrs. Patricia Berry with the Bible which was placed upon the Altar and opened. The soloist, Leighman Walker of Carrier Mills, accompanied by Mrs. Trammel, sang, "His Hand in Mine" to the retiring Matron. The officers proceeded to their respective stations.

Mrs. Sisk announced that a special meeting had been called to install a new corps of officers for 1958. She welcomed guests and asked Past Matrons and Past Patrons of the chapter to approach the East informally for introduction.

The escorts for the evening, Leslie Leonberger, Mora Moore and Sam Mershimer, presented the installing officers: Mrs. Vernell Davidson, Grand Lecturer of Eldorado Chapter, Installing Officer; Mrs. Pearl Miner, Past Matron of Ridgway Chapter, Installing Marshal; and Mrs. Mary E. Aydelott, Past Matron of Star of Equality Chapter, Installing Chaplain. Mrs. Blanch Cook, New Haven Chapter, served as installing organist.

John Murphy, Past Master of Eldorado Lodge, serving as color bearer, entered the room with the flag of our country and the pledge of allegiance which was led by Mrs. Davidson was repeated and one verse of the Star Spangled Banner was sung. Mr. Murphy also gave the "Ode to the Flag" very impressively.

Prayer was offered by the Installing Chaplain before the officers-elect were presented at the Altar for obligation. After Mrs. Bentley had taken her obligation as Worthy Matron, the soloist sang, "God Bless and Keep You," after which she was escorted to her station in the East. The Worthy Patron-elect received his obligation and was escorted to the East where both were saluted with grand honors.

Other officers installed were: Mrs. Ethel Moore, Associate Matron; Mora Moore, Associate Patron; Mrs. Lena Carter, secretary; Mrs. Hazel R. McCue, treasurer; Mrs. Patricia Berry, conductress; Mrs. Theda Miller, associate conductress; Mrs. Essie Green, chaplain; Mrs. Nolas Anderson, marshal; Mrs. Anita Bramlet, organist; Mrs. Georgia Mershimer, Adah; Mrs. Dora Barnett, Ruth; Mrs. Dorothy Colbert, Ester; Mrs. Ethel Leonberger, Martha; Mrs. Genevieve Alvey, Electa; Horace Barnett, warden; Lee Anderson, sentinel; and Herman Barnett will serve as color bearer.

As the Installing Marshal escorted the officers representing the five star points to their chairs, she recited a short poem as she presented each with a beautiful colored mum, which was emblematic of her station. Mrs. Bentley was presented a beautiful basket of flowers, a gift from the chapter.

Mrs. Hazel R. McCue, Past Matron of the chapter, acted as Mistress of Ceremonies for the evening and she also presented the Past Matron's and Past Patron's jewels to Mrs. Sisk and Mr. Aydelott.

Talks were made by the installing officer, retiring officers, the new Worthy Patron and also the Worthy Matron, who expressed her appreciation to all who had assisted in this special occasion. She then introduced members of her family.

Following the benediction which was given by Rev. Clifford Potter, son-in-law of the Worthy Patron,

Tips on Traffic Safety

By CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

With winter almost here, motorists must be prepared for the worst of driving conditions. They must be prepared to meet such situations and not to blame the weatherman for accidents.

Windshields should be kept clear of snow, ice and frost. Danger must be seen to be avoided, so make sure your headlights, windshield wiper blades and defrosters are in top condition.

Try your brakes occasionally while driving slowly and away from traffic to get the feel of the road. In this fashion you'll be able to adjust your speed to road and weather conditions. Tire chains should be used on ice and snow as they cut stopping distance about in half. Chains also give from four to seven times more starting and climbing traction ability.

Motorists should remember to pump their brakes to slow down or stop. Jamming on the brakes can lock the wheels and throw a motor vehicle into a dangerous skid. And remember, too, to stay well behind the vehicle you are following, giving yourself plenty of room to stop. Without tire chains, it takes from three to twelve times as far to stop on snow and ice as on dry concrete.

I have lost my life's companion, A life linked with my own, And every day I miss him more.

As I walk through life alone, If all the world were mine to give, I would give it all and more, To see his face I love so dear.

Come smiling through my door, No one knows the silent heart-aches.

point up the increasing growth and statewide recognition of the Local Government Center, an SIU service facility organized to pursue basic research in state and local government operations.

Co-directed by Dr. William Winter, associate professor of Government, and Howard, the Center is also designed to assist city, township and county governments throughout Southern Illinois in the form of consulting service.

The Local Government Center has published a series of informative booklets on government problems, the latest of which, "City Manager Government for Illinois," has been in wide demand throughout the state. Scheduled for publication next year are studies dealing with special assessments and county government.

His lean face was haggard and his eyes were dull and tired-looking. "Sit down, Chief," I said. "Have some coffee."

He shook his head wearily. "I've got to relieve my deputy. I left Gus on the desk and I've got only one man on patrol. Richard, my other patrolman, is still sick."

"How long do you intend to ride herd on Howell?"

He lifted his spare shoulders beneath the neat blue coat. "It depends. I want to talk to him now. Do you think he'll be in shape?"

"He'll have a wicked hangover, but he should be able to talk sense. Do you mind if I go with you?"

"Glad to have you," he said. "Come on." I left the table, paid my check and followed him up the stairs to the second floor. He said to the deputy, "Anything happen, Jake?"

"Nope. Some of the roomers—tourists—got curious, but I didn't tell 'em anything." He nodded at me. "This guy came in around a quarter after two."

The chief shot me a quick glance. Then he spoke to the deputy. "Thanks, Jake. I'll take over now. Turn in your time to Gus. If I need you again, I'll call."

"I hope you won't want me tonight, Orville. I got a boat load of guys from Buffalo signed up for a trip to the reefs this morning. Don't know when I'll get back in, but from the eats and liquor they stashed aboard we'll be gone a week."

He took the gun from his waistband and handed it to the chief butt first. "Here's your hardware, Orville."

The chief took the gun, a standard police 38, and put it in a coat pocket. "Thanks," he said again as the deputy moved away. Then he knocked briskly on the door.

A muffled voice said, "Who is it?"

"Chief Campbell—and Bennett."

Hugo Howell looked bad. He was still wearing the same clothes and he hadn't shaved. His face was puffy and flushed, his eyes red and watery. He stared at us blearily, and then spoke in his thick, rasping voice. "Come in. I was just getting up."

Howell motioned us to chairs, sat down on the rumpled bed and gave us a bewildered look. "What's going on?" he asked plaintively. "This ain't my room. I had a bottle of rye and I wanted a drink, but it's gone." He waved a hand at the closet. "And them clothes ain't mine."

"They are Ambrose's," the chief said quietly. "You're in his room, Mr. Howell."

I said, "Maybe you'd like some coffee or something to eat?" After all, he was my client, even though I disliked him and he probably couldn't pay me.

He shuddered.

Chief Campbell said gravely, "Mr. Howell, I want you to try and remember what happened last night. It seems that you and your friend, Mr. Lott, got your rooms mixed. You went to bed here, and he slept in your room, next door, and was murdered in his sleep. We tried to tell you about it last night, but you were in—ah—no condition."

Howell stared at us dumbly. "Murdered? Ambrose murdered?"

"Yes," the chief said. "We think—Mr. Bennett and I—that you were the intended victim. Mr. Lott was in your bed in your room, and in the darkness the killer thought it was you. He did it with an ice pick."

Hugo Howell stared at the chief.

The chief said kindly, "Mr. Howell, I don't wish to frighten you, but your life may be in danger. I've had a man outside your door all night. It will help if you can tell us what you remember, after you and Mr. Lott left the bar."

Howell squeezed his eyes shut and leaned forward, his hands on his knees. "It's hazy. I remember being in the bar, and that snooty bartender, and my boy."

He looked at the chief. "Was he there?"

"Yes," Campbell said. "He wanted to talk to you, but you were—pretty rough on him."

Howell sighed heavily. "I was really stinko, huh? I gotta stop, but lately I've been so worried."

He nodded at me. "He can tell you about it." He went on. "All I remember is me and Ambrose coming up the stairs. He went into a room and I just opened the next door and fell on a bed. That's the last I remember."

"Do you remember that we woke you up and tried to talk to you?"

"Nope," Howell said dismally. "I don't remember that. But I had dreams, bad dreams, about my wife—she's dead now—and my boy, Wayne." He stared at Campbell, a wild glint in his bloodshot eyes. "Who—who killed Ambrose? Why?"

"We don't know," the chief said, "but since you were the one he wanted to kill, we hoped you could help us. Do you have any enemies? Maybe somebody from Detroit who followed you here? Somebody who had reason to kill you?"

"Don't talk like that, I've made enemies, sure. Any man in business makes enemies, but nobody who'd want to..."

"You and Mr. Lott were friends?"

"Sure. Oh, we argued a lot, about politics, baseball, almost anything. Ambrose was a great arguer, but we were friends. He worked for me until I sold the shop. He was my bookkeeper. He was here for a little vacation and we just happened to meet."

Chief Campbell said gravely, "Nine of every ten forest fires are caused by man."

Father Refuses Medical Aid for Daughter, But Condition Improves

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — The condition of an 11-year-old girl whose father refused medical aid for her for religious reasons was reported to be "greatly improved" early today.

Arthur Phippen and his family have been basing their hopes for Judy Phippen's recovery from an apparent attack of acute appendicitis on prayer.

Authorities said Phippen already has lost one child whose illness allegedly was not attended by a physician. The father has been continuously implored to permit his daughter to be hospitalized.

He agreed Tuesday night to let hospital authorities care for Judy if her condition remained serious or worsened but later changed his stand after new talks with members of his sect.

Phippen told Wayne County Sheriff Ed Cordell his family never needed a doctor. They are members of a religious group whose origins are believed to be in Kentucky and Tennessee.

Judy's condition was described as "greatly improved" by authorities early today.

Phippen, a foundry worker, has rejected the appeals of Cordell and fellow workers to let physicians care for Judy. Instead, Phippen and his family have prayed continuously for the sick child. The girl earlier had been reported feverish and in apparent great pain.

Dr. W. A. Taylor, Wayne County health officer, visited the Phippens home Tuesday and reported that although the girl had "all the symptoms of acute appendicitis, my hands are tied."

There were no Christmas lights visible from outside the family's home Wednesday.

County Prosecutor Bert Keller Jr. said there was no legal way for a physician to remove the child for an operation at a hospital.

Cordell said he learned a son of the Phippens had died some time ago of measles.

Strike Threats Face Harried New Yorkers

NEW YORK (AP) — New Yorkers harried by two strike-caused transportation tieups within a month today faced the threat of two more transit walkouts that could all but send the city's millions walking to work.

With commuter tempers barely simmered down from a Christmas Eve rush hour strike by trainmen on the Long Island Railroad, the Subway Motormen's Benevolent Association Wednesday night hinted it would strike if the city signs a new contract with the rival Transport Workers Union.

The MBA, which struck for eight days earlier this month for the right to be recognized as its own bargaining agent, warned in telegrams to Mayor Robert F. Wagner and the City Transit Authority that the city would "be responsible for the consequences and the public will know where the blame lies" if the contract is signed with Michael J. Quill's TWU.

The new warning came on the eve of negotiations aimed at heading off a threatened New Year's Eve walkout by Quill's 31,000 Transit Authority Workers. The TWU leader also has threatened a New Year's Day shutdown of eight big privately owned bus lines manned by his union.

The TWU is asking for a package increase of 65 cents an hour and other benefits. This is over the protest of the motormen, who warned that a Quill-negotiated contract would be "illegal."

Attend Concert in Germany; Miss Helen Laird a Guest Soloist

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Durham of Harrisburg this week received from their son, Dr. William R. Durham, with the U. S. armed forces in Germany, a Christmas concert program in which Miss Helen Laird of Harrisburg was guest soloist.

Miss Laird, whose aunt, Mrs. Ira Cozart, still lives here, was guest soloist at the Glenssen Choir Festival held Dec. 15, attended by Dr. Durham and Mrs. Durham.

Miss Laird, of the Maenz Civic Opera in Germany, sang Cantique de Noel and The Birthday of a King.

Hornung Denies Engagement to Television Actress

LOUISVILLE (AP) — Former Notre Dame All America gridder Paul Hornung today termed as "ridiculous" and in "bad taste" a report that he had given a shapely television actress an engagement ring inside a football as a Christmas present.

Hornung, due to swap his Green Bay Packers uniform for the garb of a soldier early in January, said the reported "engagement" to Pat Mowry apparently was a "publicity" hoax.

"Whatever it was, it was in very bad taste and I don't think it was very funny, although I laughed when I heard about it last night," Hornung said angrily.

Miss Mowry, a Miss Universe candidate in 1955 as Miss New Hampshire, was quoted as saying she had received a ring in a football and added that she and Hornung "had no immediate" marriage plans.

Storm Damage Reported in Walnut Grove

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sherrod in Walnut Grove community was damaged by a storm last Thursday about the time Pankeyville was hit.

Mrs. Sherrod said the roof was blown off the house, the front porch was blown off and the kitchen was disjoined from the rest of the house. Electric wires were wrapped around a tree.

She reported that a barn at the Cleve Parsons place was destroyed nearby and that the porch was taken off the home of Mrs. Ida Wilkinson.

Neighbors helped each other, she stated. Everett Keasler moved the Sherrod furniture into one of his tenant houses, where the Sherrods will live until spring.

Mr. Sherrod is in Harrisburg hospital because of a blood clot in the leg. Mrs. Sherrod thanked all the neighbors and friends who helped after the storm.

Charge Seven U. S.

Airmen With Attacking Priest in Germany

RAMSTEIN, Germany (AP) — U. S. Air Force and local German authorities charged today that seven American airmen attacked a German priest "without provocation" last Sunday night.

The incident came to light when Col. H. C. Hartwig, commander of the Ramstein and Landstuhl air bases here, issued a public apology.

He announced that the seven men are under arrest "and will be punished for the attack." Their names were not released.

Thousands Driven from Homes in Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP) — Nearly 100 persons have been killed and hundreds of thousands driven from their homes by floods and landslides throughout Ceylon, reports from the provinces said today.

At least 24 persons were drowned and another 40 buried in landslides in the Kurunegala area Wednesday. Four persons were killed when a hillside gave way in Bandarawela in south central Ceylon and buried four railway sheds.

The government estimated 250,000 persons have been driven from their homes since the heavy rains began weeks ago. Reports from Nuwara Eliya said it had been raining continuously in the central provinces for 40 days.

Nation's Traffic Toll Hits 212 Over Holiday

By United Press
A short but tragic Christmas holiday ended with a nationwide traffic death toll that topped the 200 mark.

The total was 2 1/2 times as great as the normal toll for a non-holiday, Wednesday in December.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, said that "there must be a better way to celebrate Christmas on the highways."

The council had estimated that only 180 persons would be killed in Christmas traffic.

"We can only hope that the shock of this toll will bring about sober thinking that may hold the New Year holiday toll down to a new low," Dearborn said.

At 9:30 a. m. Thursday, the United Press had counted 212 traffic deaths between the hours of 6 p. m. Tuesday and midnight Wednesday. At least 27 persons were killed in fires and 27 in miscellaneous accidents for an overall total of 267.

Ohio led the nation in traffic deaths with 26. New York had 17 deaths, Michigan and California had 12 each, and Washington and Oklahoma had 10 each.

In Honduras, mahogany trees are cut during the wet season by the light of the moon, because it is much cooler to work then.

Purification Plants Clearing Ohio Valley Streams

CINCINNATI (AP) — Most of the people living along the 943-mile course of the Ohio River soon will have a purer stream flowing by their doors.

That was the prediction in a report submitted today to the governors of the eight states in the Ohio River Valley Water Sanitation Commission.

The report said that about three fourths of the 10 million urban population of the Ohio Valley are being benefitted by sewage purification facilities already installed or soon to be completed.

Another million are to be served by treatment facilities in the final planning stage.

B. A. Poole of Indianapolis, chairman of the commission, pointed out that only one of every 1,000 persons had the benefit of such facilities when the commission began its work in 1948.

The report showed 23 municipalities along the Ohio and its tributaries, including 13 in Ohio, had placed new treatment plants in operation this year and that 23 others added to their facilities. Another 25 towns began work on new plants or on expansions.

The commission reported that a total of 1,431 industrial plants discharge excess matter into valley streams but that 717 of them have taken adequate measures to prevent pollution. Four years ago 323 plants were cooperating with the program.

Edward J. Cleary, executive director and chief engineer, said the record was good but "we have a long way to go in elimination of taste-producing and harness-contributing compounds, the reduction of mine-acid drainage and in curbing carelessness in handling oil."

Rails Report Drop in Revenue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's railroads report a drop in revenue during 1957.

The Association of American Railroads said operating revenue from passenger and freight services was $10,500,000,000 this year—down 1/2 per cent from 1956.

Freight handling accounted for $8,935,000,000 of the total, a decrease of 16 million dollars, passenger revenues in 1957 totaled 740 million dollars, a drop of 2.2 per cent. Other revenues dropped 2.1 per cent to 825 million dollars.

William T. Farley, chairman of the association, said the railroads total operating expenses amounted to $9,220,000,000 this year, an increase of 112 million dollars or 1.4 per cent over 1956.

He said the carriers would pay out $1,080,000,000 in taxes, a drop of 41 million dollars or 3.7 per cent.

Net operating income, before charges, dropped 13.4 per cent to 925 million dollars.

Farley said this would give the railroads a 3 1/3 per cent return on net investment in 1957, compared with 3.95 per cent in 1956.

Almost 1,800 generals in World War II had more troops under their command than were ever under the banners of Napoleon.

Ben-Gurion Says He Still Seeks W. German Arms

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Premier David Ben-Gurion told a news conference Wednesday his decision to send a mission to West Germany to acquire military equipment was unchanged.

He said the only thing that is changed is the emissary, but he did not disclose the name of the new one.

Ben-Gurion's statement came as the latest development in a political situation which threatens the life of his cabinet. The Left-Wing Party Ahud Avoda, a member of his coalition, has protested the move.

Ben-Gurion hinted to parliament Tuesday that Israel may seek submarines from West Germany. And he failed to deny such a charge by Communist Party leader Moshe Sneh.

Ben-Gurion told newsmen the establishment of diplomatic relations with Bonn is not imminent because that "requires agreement from two sides." But he said no member of the cabinet has opposed such relations.

Ben-Gurion, who is also the defense minister, refused to answer questions about the cabinet crisis. But he said, "I don't wish any future minister of defense such difficulties in sending a mission as I have had."

Communist Daily Worker to Close

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Communist Party has voted to close down the Daily Worker as of next week.

The decision to stop publishing the party organ came at a secret meeting of the party's national executive committee last weekend.

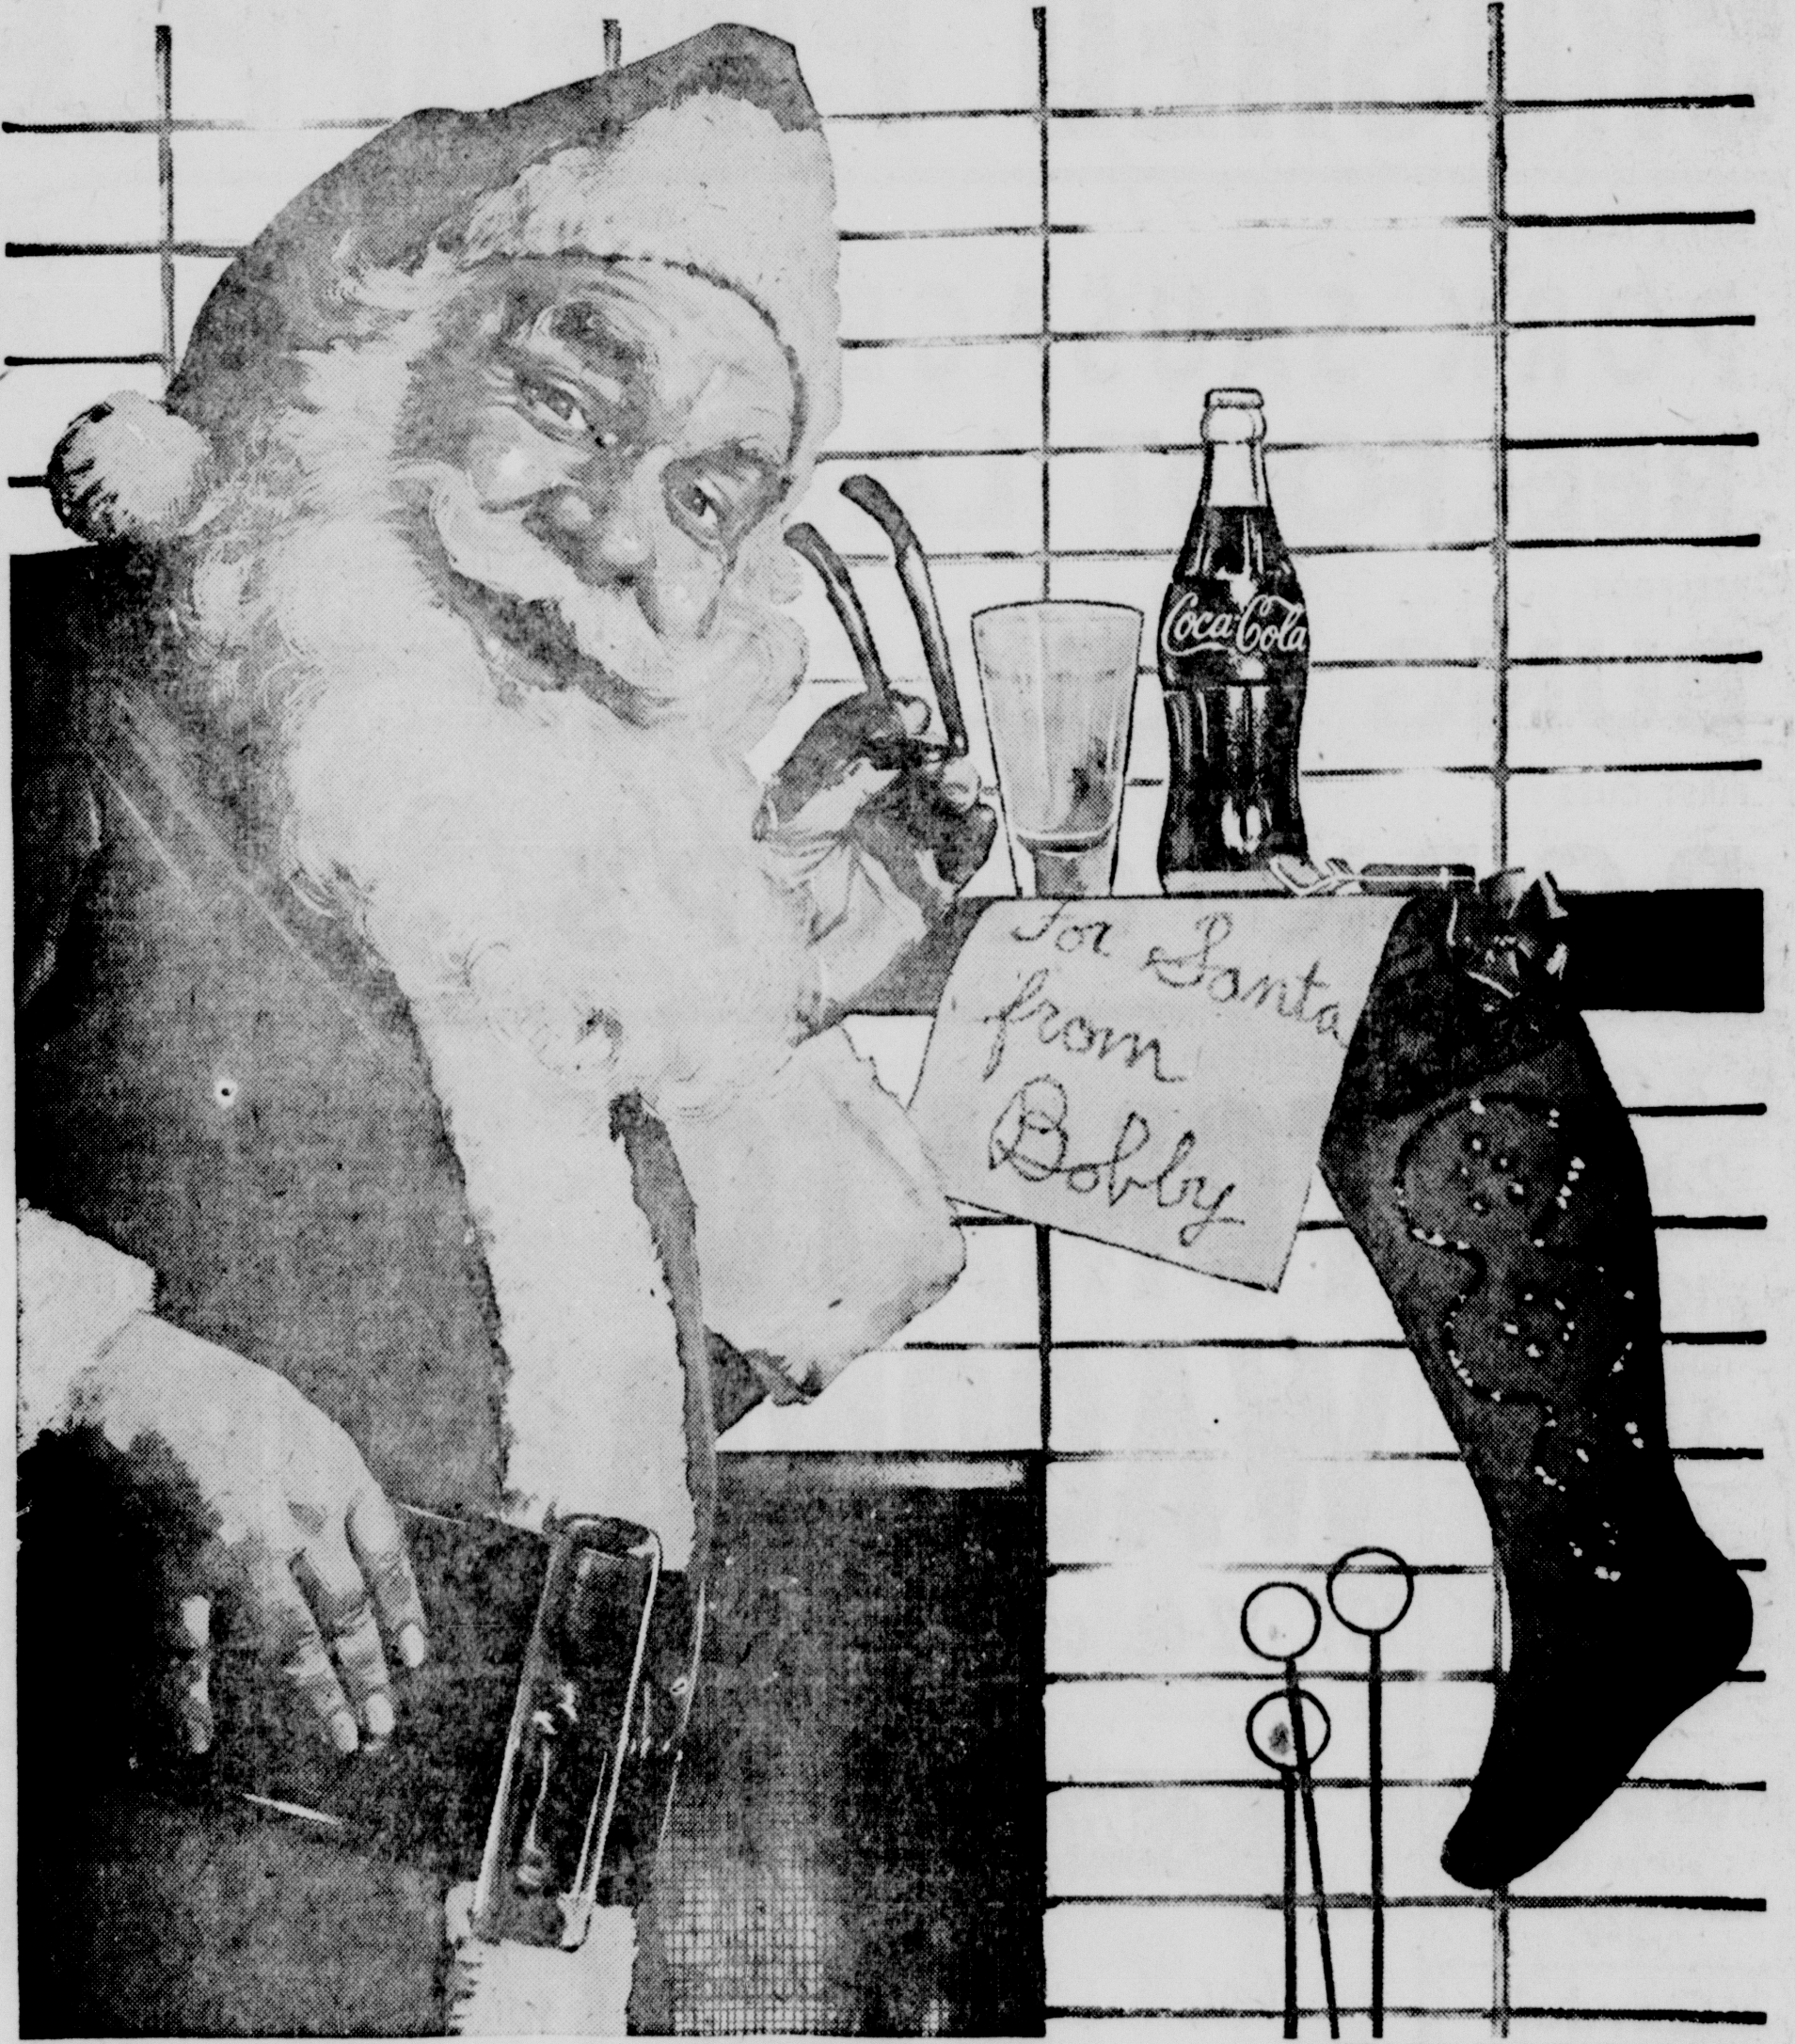

But Daily Worker editor John Gates said Wednesday in a formal statement he would try to continue the 34-year-old paper. Gates said he did not consider the vote binding, and "in any case, the Daily Worker will cease to exist only when it alone says so."

The Daily Worker in October printed a sworn statement that its average paid circulation in the preceding year was 5,574. This was a drop of 1,821 from the previous year and a slide of 15,560 from the paper's all-time high in 1938 of about 20,000.

Indications that the Daily Worker was operating deep in the red came recently when it was cut from eight to four pages and from five to four issues a week.

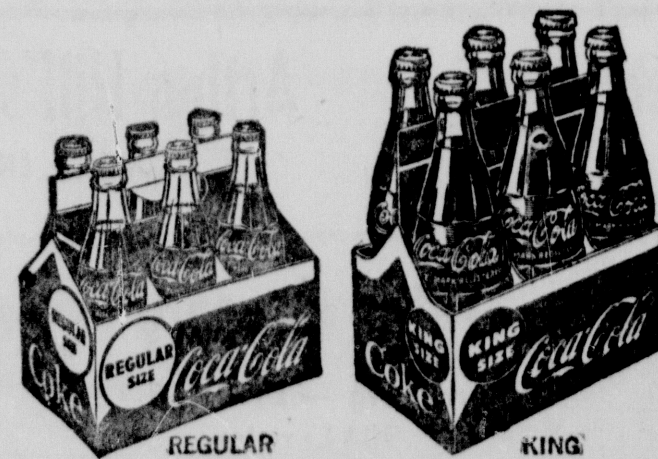

Suspension of the newspaper would leave the Communist Party in New York City with only one newspaper, the Worker, the weekend edition of the Daily Worker.

During the Civil War, persons seeking government positions in order to escape military service were dubbed "payroll patriots."

State to Expand Use of White Guide Lines

SPRINGFIELD — The experimental use of white guide lines of the outer edges of Illinois highway pavements will be greatly expanded in 1958, the state Highway Division reported today.

The white lines, like those down the center of highways, will be painted on the edges of pavements on most curves and to 500 feet from the approaches to curves. They also will be painted on all sections of winding roads and on all highways where four-lane pavements narrow to two lanes.

Also the white warning lines will be painted on the outer edges of all pavements within 500 feet of narrow bridges.

All curves on state highways with a radius of 3,000 feet or less will be given the safety line treatment—about 95 per cent of all the highway curves in the state.

H. H. Harrison, engineer of traffic for the division, said about 500 miles of state highway were treated with the white safety lines this year in a test of the lines as a safety measure.

"We haven't figured how many miles the 1958 experiments will cover, but we are really trying to prove to ourselves that this safety marking reduces accidents," he said.

The division hasn't any statistical studies yet to prove or disprove the value of the safety lines, Harrison said.

"But," he said, "I have never seen anything the Highway Division did that resulted in stronger public response. We've received close to 100 letters from motorists strongly endorsing the idea."

"Few people bother to write to commend anyone for the division's work," he said, "when they write they usually complain about something. I've never seen anything like this."

The white lines were applied this year to about 50 miles of highway in each of the division's 10 districts. The lines are 4 inch wide strips of reflecting paint on both sides of the road.

They are designed to make the edges of highways easier to see at night, and particularly in foggy or rainy weather.

In theory they are supposed to prevent accidents which occur when motorists drive on to highway shoulders and lose control of their cars, or when motorists drive too close to the center of the highway because they cannot easily see the highway edge.

Hannah Named Civil Rights Group Chairman

WASHINGTON — The new chairman of the Civil Rights Commission established a theme today of a patient, "good-will" approach to the long-standing problem of racial desegregation in America.

Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University with a firm record of backing integration in the academic and military life, was named by President Eisenhower Monday to succeed former Supreme Court Justice Stanley F. Reed as commission chairman.

Hannah, who has been serving as commission vice chairman, disclosed he will meet with the President and commission members here Jan. 3 to launch the new group's work.

The President also named former Florida Gov. Doyle E. Carlton, identified with southern moderates on the segregation issue, to fill the vacancy caused when Reed resigned for fear of a conflict with his past and present judicial role.

Greater Conquests

As a nation in World War II, the United States conducted campaigns and conquered areas vaster in size and more widely dispersed than the conquests of any other nation in world history.

'Rome Eternal' On Catholic Hour Over Television

The life of Rome and Vatican City, past and present, will be presented for the first time on television in "Rome Eternal," a four-part film series on the NBC-TV network, Jan. 5, 12, 19, and 26 from 2:30 to 3 p. m. (CST). It will be seen on "The Catholic Hour." The series will be presented over WSIL in Harrisburg.

Through "Rome Eternal," the American TV audience will view the first motion pictures of St. Peter's tomb, deep under St. Peter's Basilica; Pope Pius XII in audience at St. Peter's and at his summer residence; the genius of Michelangelo; the great art treasures of Rome and the Vatican; the ingenious structures of classical Rome, and the life and activities of modern Rome and Vatican City.

"Rome Eternal," co-produced by NBC and the National Council of Catholic Men, was more than a year in the planning.

The first of the four half-hour films, "The City of Peter," will be shown Jan. 5. It will reconstruct the life of rich, pagan imperial Rome, then trace the translation from paganism to Christianity.

"The City of Faith," Jan. 12, will show the liberation of the Church and the influence of Roman art and architecture on Western civilization.

"Renaissance Rome," Jan. 19, will depict the spirit that inspired Michelangelo and his contemporaries. The beauty of the Christian Renaissance will be shown in the great art treasures of Vatican Palace, in the rooms of the Vatican, in the tradition of the Swiss Guard, in Roman buildings, courts, and sculpture.

"Our Moment in Time," Jan. 26, will present modern Rome and the activities of the Vatican and Pope Pius XII.

Nation's Top Cage Teams In Action in Five Major Eight-Team Tournaments

By United Press
College basketball's annual holiday head-knocking begins in earnest tonight with several of the nation's more highly regarded teams in action in five major eight-team tournaments.

The action unfolds in such widely separated cities as Kansas City, Mo., (Big Eight), Raleigh, N. C., (Dixie Classic), New York City (Holiday Festival), Oklahoma City, Okla., (All - College) and Houston, Tex., (Southwest).

Kansas and Kansas State, ranked 1-2 by the United Press board of coaches, are the teams to beat in the Big Eight tourney which also includes Oklahoma, Missouri, Iowa State, Colorado, Nebraska and outsider Princeton. Kansas plays Oklahoma and Kansas State meets Missouri tonight while the others play Friday night.

Tarheels Dixie Favorite
The Dixie Classic offers the most evenly-balanced field of all the tourneys, but North Carolina, upset by West Virginia in the Kentucky Invitation Tournament and the defending national champion, is favored. The competition here includes North Carolina State, Duke, Wake Forest and outsiders Duquesne, Northwestern, St. Louis and Seton Hall.

The opening day pairings find Wake Forest playing Duquesne. N. C. State meeting Northwestern in afternoon action and fourth-ranked North Carolina playing St. Louis and Duke meeting Seton Hall in night games.

The Holiday Festival at New York offers 12th ranked Temple, 13th ranked Seattle, California, New York University, Dayton, Manhattan and Connecticut. Temple and Seattle are favored to reach the final round with each drawing comparatively "easy" opponents in the opening round. The Owls play Pittsburgh and the Chieftans meet Connecticut.

Dons Top Field
Fifth-ranked San Francisco tops a "stacked" field in the All-College Tourney, which includes such teams as Western Kentucky, Denver, Niagara, Tulane, Oklahoma City University, Tulsa and Idaho State. San Francisco opens against Denver in the three-day tourney, and rates the favorite's mantle off its superior height and general all-around consistency. Western Kentucky is the "dark horse" here.

Undeclared Texas Tech and defending champion Southern Methodist get the Southwest Conference tourney off in the afternoon while co-favorites Texas Christian and Rice play a little later. TCU winds up the afternoon's activity against Texas A&M and Rice meets off-beaten Baylor in the second game of a night twin-bill. Other teams include Texas, Arkansas. Semi-finals are scheduled for Friday and the final for Saturday.

Leahy Accepts Coaching Post At Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Aggies picked up a driving football fundamentalist the same pattern as Paul (Bear) Bryant Wednesday night when Frank Leahy, former coach at Notre Dame, agreed to become head coach and athletic director.

Dr. M. T. Harrington, Texas A&M president, said Leahy agreed to contract terms by telephone and that the formal signing of a contract was expected by the end of the week. This may be Saturday as the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., where the Aggies meet Tennessee in their final game under Bryant, who is going to Alabama.

However, Leahy was in a hospital at Michigan City, Ind., today. He slipped and broke his ankle Tuesday while carrying Christmas packages into his Long Beach, Ind., home. He was taken to the hospital for X-rays and remained for treatment.

Dr. Harrington said Leahy, 49, would be given a salary of $16,000 a year plus rent-free use of a college-owned residence. The contract is for three years.

The Notre Dame graduate, noted for pessimistic attitude despite having winning teams, will become the 22nd coach since A&M fielded its first football team in 1894.

Leahy's overall record, including two years at Boston College, is 107-13-9.

Leahy was expected to report to College Station soon after the first of the year, Harrington said. Leahy quit Notre Dame after the 1953 season because of ill health. He compiled an 11-year record of 87 victories, 11 losses and 9 ties and had six undefeated seasons.

He said Wednesday he had completely recovered his health. "The layoff got me over all the troubles that I had and my local doctor has told me that I am healthier than I've been in 10 years."

Holiday Tourney Begins Today at Davenport Gym

The Egyptian Holiday basketball tournament got under way this afternoon at Davenport gymnasium with favored West Frankfort meeting Murphysboro at 1:30 p. m. and the host Harrisburg Bull Dogs facing Du Quoin at 3:15 p. m.

The winners of these two games will meet at 7 p. m. Friday in the first semi-final tilt.

Tonight's pairings find Mt. Vernon, seeded No. 2 and a 60-56 loser to West Frankfort Saturday night, meeting the McLeansboro Foxes at 7 p. m. and Eldorado and Carbondale winding up the first round pairings at 8:45 p. m.

Finals will be Friday night, the game for third place starting at 7:00 and the championship tilt at 8:45.

Michigan State's Ninowski Pilots Northern All-Stars To 23-20 Win Over South

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dick Christy and Jim Ninowski set a frantic pace with long runs and passes Wednesday night as the College North-South All-Stars wrapped up the thrills of a whole season in one night for 28,000 fans in the Orange Bowl.

Ninowski, the slender Michigan State quarterback who was named the North's most valuable player, completed 13 of 33 passes for a record 295 yards in leading the "Yanks" to a 23-20 victory, only their third in the 10-game series sponsored for Shrine charities.

His throws, most to teammate Bob Jewett at end, produced one touchdown and set up another.

They also put Michigan State's other senior end, Dave Kaiser in position to boot a 36-yard field goal for what wound up being the winning points.

Christy Goes on Rampage

Christy, the 180-pound speedball from North Carolina State who was named the South's MVP went on a second half rampage. He broke through the line for 62 yards and a touchdown in the third period and carried back a punt 57 yards in the final quarter for another score.

Warriors Upset Celtics, 115-105

By United Press

The Boston Celtics have such a "fat" lead in the Eastern Division race of the National Basketball Association that even when they lose a game, which they don't often do, it doesn't mean a thing.

The Philadelphia Warriors, coming up with their best effort in many weeks, scored early and late in upending the Celtics, 115-105, Wednesday evening to snap a four-game losing streak. The loss was only the Celtics' fifth in 28 games thus far and still left them with a comfortable seven and one-half game lead over the Syracuse Nationals.

The Nationals, paced by the hot shooting of Red Conlin, defeated the New York Knickerbockers, 134-130, in overtime and the Minneapolis Lakers clung to a slim lead in the closing minutes to edge the Detroit Pistons, 106-104, in other holiday action.

Postman Rings 13,736 Times If You Win

By WARD CANNEL

NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—If U. S. postmen ever inquire into this new "Share of America Contest" . . . well, there's just no telling what will happen.

Obviously, the contest is dazzling and the prize handsome. He who wins takes home one share of every common stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange as of last May 31 — or its equivalent ($42,000) invested to his taste.

But beneath the surface, according to appalled sources on Wall Street, are unlooked for consequences to the mail courier whose appointed rounds include the prize winner.

As of last May 31, the facts reveal, there were 1,090 common stocks on the Exchange. And if the contest winner takes his prize this way, his mailman will have to:

1. Deliver 1,090 confirmations of the stock purchase from the broker handling the account.
2. Deliver letters of welcome from about 400 companies.
3. Deliver 1,090 certificates of stock.

For posties keeping score at home, that's a total of 2,580 pieces of mail—so far. Now then:

4. About 75 per cent of the companies will make quarterly financial reports. All companies make annual reports about 25 pages long between hard covers.

Running total: 6,396 pieces of mail—and very heavy.

It is meager revenge to any postman that the contest winner will have to negotiate 4,360 quarterly dividend checks—in amounts from 10 cents to $2.25 for a total taxable income of $2,000. The postman still has to worry about:

5. Delivery of 1,090 notices of annual stockholder meetings.
6. Delivery of reports of these meetings by about 600 companies.
7. Delivery of about 350 notices of special stockholder meetings.
8. And delivery of reports by the same 350 on the results of those special meetings.

Total now: 13,146 (including the dividend checks).

9. In the course of the year, some companies will send promotional letters about improvements, significant comment, criticism and reply. Also: magazines, samples, advertisements. Score this one conservatively: 800.

10. It should be noted that the stock broker is very big with the mails, too. It's easier, however, to tally his correspondence in linear measure.

For example, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Beane sends: a monthly statement on the status of the account, an annual 16-page report, and on request magazines, special projects, surveys, analyses, kits, comments, and appraisals.

A spokesman for this firm says that there is something on the press all the time and something in the mail almost all the time.

So, count on Merrill Lynch to fill two feet of shelf space per year—by mail.

11. Usually there are a dozen proxy fights on the market during the year when insurgent groups of stockholders try to take control of their companies.

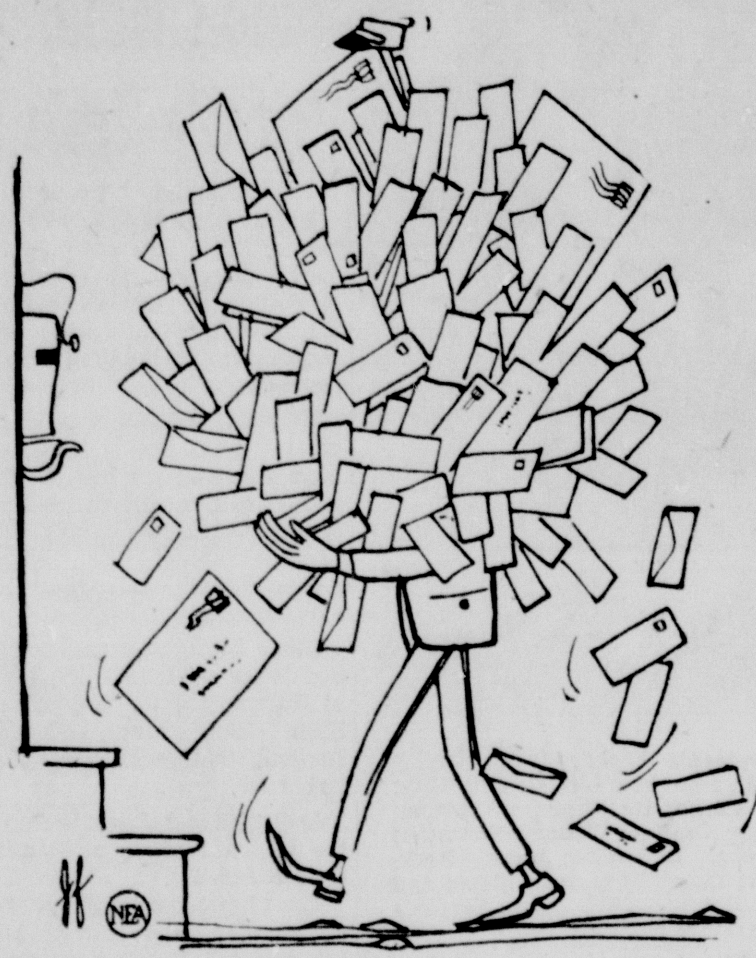

Mail comes from both sides to a depth of 240 letters. (There are sometimes telegrams, phone calls and personal visits but these are of no concern to the mailman unless he has won the prize.)

12. Any man on 1,090 stockholder lists is apt to find himself sold into the mail-slavery of phony stock sucker lists — regardless of how carefully legitimate companies guard themselves.

This kind of stealing and selling goes on, but it's impossible to estimate how much phony stock mail will come in.

Once a mail list is sold, it will probably be sold again into new and varied hands, but no estimate is possible.

Otherwise, in the normal course of the year the total additional mail in the postal pouch will be a heavy, frequent 13,736 plus 24 inches of envelopes, brochures and plain paper wrappers.

There is some consolation to be found in the words of a surprised contest official who greeted these statistics with:

"Gee. Maybe it's better to put all your eggs in one basket."

Year of 1957 One of Great Progress in State: Stratton

BY WILLIAM G. STRATTON
Governor of Illinois
Written for United Press

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The year 1957 has been one of great progress in Illinois and in its government. Further, it has been a year which has set the stage for future improvements.

The accomplishments in 1957 provide a base for 1958 action, and it is virtually impossible to discuss one without the other, for this is a continuing and advancing program.

In looking back at the year, its victories, its failures, and its gratifying moments of success one fact seems outstanding: Last January a General Assembly gathered in Springfield truly representative of the people, for the first time in nearly a half a century.

Reapportionment, for decades said to be the "impossible" constitutional reform, became a reality at that time, and, as those who helped in the long fight to bring it about predicted, it has been the key that has unlocked the door to modernization of our state government.

Low Tax State
While the victory of reapportionment actually lies in the earlier years of this administration, the proof of its value was demonstrated in the year 1957. The program enacted by the General Assembly in its six month session was truly outstanding—a record of progressive government in the state.

First, we ended the year again as a low tax state. Only one other state in the nation has a lower tax burden per capita personal income. While maintaining this record, we at the same time provided more adequate financing for our schools at all levels, improved the care of the mentally ill, established a graduated system of salary increases for state employees and in many other respects improved and expanded state services.

Second, we set a new record in road building in the state. The growing automobile registration in Illinois creates a situation which cannot wait for future action. It requires new, better, and safer roads now.

Third, we enacted a new traffic safety program which in the six months it has been effective shows the promise of being a partial answer at least to the tragic toll of dead and injured, and the staggering economic loss on our highways and streets. New absolute speed limits, and a doubled state police force, are two of the most important phases of this six-point program, and their good effect is noticeable.

In the face of increasing motor vehicle mileage, we have held the line on traffic deaths in Illinois.

New Fiscal Controls
Fourth, we made new advances in fields that offer serious social challenge to our civilization. Our juvenile delinquency prevention, and cure, program was expanded, and a new branch of enforcement to deal with the problem of narcotics was established. We prepared to meet the emerging problems of the atomic age through new safety regulations.

Fifth, we accomplished important structural changes in state government, by statute, accompanied by new fiscal controls and a general streamlining of governmental operation.

Certainly these factors, taken together, form the pattern for further advance in 1958. Our plans for the year include a highway construction program of more than a quarter of a billion dollars, plus completion of portions of the toll road network which forms the key to relief of traffic congestion in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Peabody Says Poor Quality of Coal Causes Closing

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Peabody Coal Co. plans to close one of its biggest mines in Illinois because of the poor quality of coal at the location, the company announced today.

The closedown will cause the lay-off of more than 500 workers, an official explained. The mine is located at Pana, Ill.

Commonwealth Edison Co., a utility which buys the bulk of the mine's output, said in Chicago the closing results from a proposed revision in its fuel supply contract with Peabody.

Edison said the proposed contract revision was written because of burning difficulties it has experienced with the Pana coal, and an offer by Peabody to supply better quality coal at lower cost from other mines.

Peabody said it has not yet decided whether the Pana mine will be put on a standby basis.

Carrier Mills, Metropolis to Play for Tournament Championship

Win Openers from Johnston City
And Rosiclare

The Carrier Mills Wildcats and Metropolis Trojans will clash tonight in the championship game of the second annual Carrier Mills Invitational tournament.

The 'Cats and Trojans won their way into the title tilt by taking decisions from Johnston City and Rosiclare Thursday evening in the first round of play in the four-team blind-draw tournament.

Metropolis edged Rosiclare 50-49 in the opener and the host school was victorious over the JC Indians 69-59.

Rosiclare led Metropolis throughout most of the tourney's opening game, but with three regulars on the bench via the foul route couldn't hold off a late surge and lost out in the final minute 50-49 in a humdinger of a battle. This was Metropolis' second close one over Rosiclare in a week, having taken a 56-53 verdict last Friday on the Rosiclare floor.

Call 55 Fouls

Carrier Mills held the upper hand practically all the way over the battling Johnston City Indians, but Wildcat fans had some anxious moments in the late stages after four 'Cats had fouled out of the game.

Johnston City also lost a couple of regulars in the game that was marked by an unusually large number of fouls, the officials whistling a total of 55 infractions, 31 against Carrier Mills and 24 on the Indians.

Bill Smith fouled out early in the final frame and Vern Rollins left with exactly 2 minutes left to play. Keene and Williams had fouled out earlier. White and Sullivan of Johnston City also were whistled out.

The Indians threw up a tight under-the-basket defense and managed to hold Rollins scoreless from the field throughout the entire second half but he was fouled seven times and made ten free tosses, which when added to 11 points made in the first half gave him scoring honors. Smith had 17 and Manier 12 for Carrier Mills. Johnston City also had three scorers in double figures—Grant 19, White 14 and McNeal 13.

Early in the game the score was tied at 6-6, but by the end of the quarter Carrier Mills was on top 19-9.

Johnston City held a 15-11 second quarter scoring edge to trail only 30-24 at the half. At the three-quarter mark CM was in front 50-39 and the teams battled on near-even terms in the final frame.

In the opener Metropolis had to stage a fast finish to grab the victory. Late in the opening quarter the score was tied 10-10, but at the end of the period Rosiclare led 13-10 and held a 27-20 halftime advantage.

Rosiclare moved farther in front early in the third period, holding a 31-22 lead at one time, but by the quarter's end Metropolis had moved to within 5 points, 38-33.

The last quarter was nip-and-tuck. With 3:30 to play Rosiclare led 42-41, at 2:47 Rosiclare still held a one-point lead 44-43, then Metropolis went in front 45-44 with 1:44 to play. Rosiclare then led 46-45, the score was tied 46-

WEBQ to Broadcast From Two Holiday Tournaments Tonight

WEBQ will broadcast from two holiday tournaments tonight, Ken Hamilton sportscaster has announced.

At 7 o'clock tonight Hamilton and Elmer Gladson will broadcast the Harrisburg-West Frankfort game of the Egyptian Holiday tournament being played at the HTHS Davenport gym.

Then they will move to Carrier Mills to put the championship game of the Carrier Mills tourney on the air, with Metropolis and host Carrier Mills playing in the title game. Broadcast time from Carrier Mills is slated for 8:30.

Both games will be live, direct broadcasts over both AM and FM on WEBQ, Hamilton stated.

46. Rosiclare went to the front 49-46 on a basket and free throw by Donnie Seay with 1:14 to go.

Seay fouled out with a minute to play and Christian sank a free throw to move Metropolis within two points, 49-47. Christian then raced under for a basket to knot the score at 49-all with 46 seconds to go. Parr's free toss seconds later won the game and put Coach Claude Shelton, who organized the Carrier Mills tourney before moving to Metropolis, in a position to battle his former team for the title.

Overrule Judge's Integration Order

NEW ORLEANS, La. (UP)—The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today that the public schools of Dallas need not integrate in January, as a U. S. district judge in Dallas had ordered.

A ruling came at the request of the Dallas school board which contended Federal District Judge William T. Atwell went beyond his authority when he issued an integration order this year.

The Appeals Court said the Dallas school board is still under orders to end racial segregation "with all deliberate speed." But Judge Atwell's mid-term deadline was overruled and no new deadline was set.

Halleck Asks Tax Aid for Parents of College Students

WASHINGTON (UP)—A key House Republican today proposed a special tax exemption for parents of college students. He offered this as an alternative to federal scholarships, as proposed by President Eisenhower.

"It would cost less and do more good," Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.) told a reporter. Halleck is a House leader with close White House connections and normally is a staunch administration supporter.

House Democratic Whip Carl Albert (Okla.), in a separate interview, rejected the Halleck proposal as an answer to the critical need for more scientists but said it might have merit on other grounds.

Albert endorsed the scholarship plan. Halleck's plan would help most those families who can and will send their youngsters to college without federal aid. He said families most in need aren't paying enough federal taxes to get much benefit. Only in a "very, very few" cases, Albert added, would a special tax exemption make a difference between going to college and staying home.

The contrasting views of the two House leaders pointed up growing indications the President's plan for scholarships and other federal aids for scientific study faces sharp controversy in the House and Senate.

Many lawmakers oppose all federal aid to education and can be expected to fight scholarships or anything else that smacks of it. Federal aid directly to universities for added equipment and plant may run into a squabble over racial segregation.

Halleck's tax exemption plan, especially with the high-level backing he can give it, could draw wide support if controversy over these and other points imperilled the White House proposal.

The administration plan still is taking final shape. As of now it is expected to call for a federal outlay of 200 million to 300 million dollars yearly for aid in a variety of forms aimed primarily at producing more and better scientists in the race with Russia.

The Syracuse Nationals, although no threat to the Boston Celtics, widened their second-place advantage over the New York Knickerbockers in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division race to two and one-half games today.

The Nats, who defeated the Knicks in overtime on Wednesday, made it three victories in a row Thursday by downing the Cincinnati Royals, 104-100.

The Celtics, rebounding from a Christmas night loss to the Philadelphia Warriors, easily defeated the Knickerbockers, 120-110. In the night's other game, the Detroit Pistons defeated the St. Louis Hawks, 110-106. The loss snapped a Hawks' eight-game winning streak, but still left them with a comfortable 8-1-2 game lead in the Western Division race.

Army Relents On 220 Security Risk Discharges

WASHINGTON (UP)—Army officials estimated today that about 220 of 726 former officers and enlisted men discharged as security risks between 1948 and 1955 may soon be granted fully honorable military records.

This means that about 30 per cent of all former Army officers and enlisted men separated for security reasons since the government's loyalty program began may receive honorable discharge under a special Army review program.

The Navy and Air Force have regular discharge review programs, but no special security review program on discharges similar to the Army's.

The Army disclosed Thursday it had completed reconsideration of 650 security cases since the program began in March, 1956, and 76 more remain to be decided.

Army personnel officials emphasized that while the changes were designed to correct any unfair or harsh discharges, they did not signify a let-up in Army loyalty security standards in the years since the end of congressional investigations of military security policies.

They pointed out that the program was being administered under regulations issued by Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker in 1955. These required "common sense" judgments on the significance of previous subversive ties and consideration of the soldier's overall military record when discharged.

The 726 discharges did not concern security violations while in the Army. Most of the cases involved personal association with Communist or other subversive organizations before Army induction. Many falsified their Army records to cover up such ties.

Find Bodies of Minister, Wife, Two Children In Florida Home

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP)—Police pressed an investigation today to determine if the four-member family of a prominent Methodist minister, investment counselor and foundation president died in a pre-Christmas murder-suicide.

The body of Dr. H. Sanford Williams, 48, was found late Thursday afternoon in his bathroom, a 45-caliber pistol on the floor nearby. His wife was found shot to death in a bedroom and his two young sons were dead of bullet wounds in another bedroom.

A medical examiner said the deaths apparently occurred some time Monday and tests were begun to determine if any of the four had fired the pistol.

Police were summoned to the fashionable Bahama Beach home at 4:30 p. m. Thursday when business associates of Williams, their knocks unanswered, peered through a window and saw one of the bodies. Authorities said it appeared the four had been dead several days.

Williams had been president of the National Retirement Foundation, devoted to the health and welfare of the aged, since last February. Previously, he was an investment counselor here since 1954 and earlier had been pastor of several North Carolina Methodist churches.

Samuel William Fuller, foundation vice president, said he talked to Williams Monday night and that he appeared to be despondent.

Williams came here in 1954 and became an investment counselor after qualifying with the New York Stock Exchange. He married the former Alice Wenzlick in 1940. They had two sons, Leonard, 10, and Clarence, 9.

Police said Williams could have been despondent over finances. They found a letter from an unidentified brother advising him to return to the brokerage business.

Fuller said Williams had told him the foundation "was his whole life and that he didn't want to be around if it failed." He said Williams had suffered one setback after another in his efforts to build up the foundation.

The two leading minerals, coal and oil, contributed nearly three-fourths of the state total, reports the monthly publication of the University of Illinois College of Commerce. Other minerals produced in large quantities were fluorspar, stone, clay, sand and gravel.
